- II. The college may select the members of the president election committee according to the directions for electing or re-electing the president or approving of the resignation of the president:
 - (1) Two or three teachers are selected as representatives. The numbers of men and women should be at least 1/3 of the total number of candidates separately.
 - (2) Two or three alumni are selected as representatives. The numbers of men and women should be at least 1/3 of the total number of candidates separately.
 - (3) Two or three highly regarded people in the society are selected as representatives. The numbers of men and women should be at least 1/3 of the total number of candidates separately.

Teacher representatives are elected through the anonymous restricted method by all full-time teachers at the level of lecturer or higher in the college. Three teachers with the highest numbers of votes are selected as representatives. Various departments in the college of engineering first recommend one or two alumni and highly regarded people in the society separately; then, full-time teachers at the level of lecturer or higher in the college anonymously vote through the restricted method to elect three representatives for alumni and three for highly regarded people in the society.

When the university establishes the president re-election committee according to the directions for electing or re-electing the president and approving of the resignation of the president, the college selects a committee member, who is elected through the anonymous restricted method by all full-time teachers at the level of lecturer or higher in the college. Two alternative members are also determined according to the number of votes.
- IV. The aforementioned voting-related matters are handled by the election committee in the college
